

Heavenly Father,

You are the Rock of Israel, steady, faithful, unchanging. You are the One who speaks truth, who raises up leaders, and who sees the end from the beginning. Today I come before You with a deep awareness that my life is shaping a legacy, one that will outlive me.

Lord, Your Word says that the one who rules justly, who leads in the fear of God, is like the morning light at sunrise, like a cloudless dawn, like rain that makes the grass sprout from the earth. I long for that kind of life. I long for that kind of leadership.

So I ask You, form in me a heart that fears You above all else. Strip away pride, selfish ambition, and the desire for approval. Replace it with humility, integrity, and a deep reverence for Your name. Teach me to lead, whether in my home, my relationships, my work, or my calling, with justice, compassion, and truth.

Father, for those entrusted with leadership in the church, strengthen them to shepherd Your people faithfully. May their lives reflect Your light, not their own. Guard them from compromise, and anchor them in Your Word. For parents, Lord, remind us that our greatest legacy is not success, but faithfulness. Help us to lead our children with wisdom, patience, and grace. May our homes reflect Your presence, and may our lives point them to You.

For those who are single, remind them that their influence is not less, but significant in Your Kingdom. Use their lives in powerful ways to lead, to serve, and to shine Your light. Establish in them a legacy of devotion and obedience that impacts generations.

God, like David, we confess that our houses are not perfect before You. Yet we cling to Your covenant, Your steadfast, everlasting promises. Thank You that our hope is not in our performance, but in Your grace.

Keep us from becoming like thorns; useless, dangerous, and cast aside. Instead, make our lives fruitful and life-giving. Shape a legacy that brings blessing, not harm... one that reflects Your righteousness and Your glory.

And when our days are done, may it be said that we led in the fear of the Lord... that we walked with You... and that our lives pointed others to the true King.

We trust You with our legacy.

We surrender our lives to Your purpose.

In Jesus' name,
Amen.
